W. C. Scarritt Reads a Paper on the Separation of Kansas City From Jackson County-Telephone Evening, November 15.

Convention hall lies very close to the hearts of the members of the Commercial Club and it seems now that, although the matter is not mentioned, a meeting of the American National bank yesterday at the meeting of the directors held in the club cannot be held with a meeting of the directors held in the club cannot be held without subscriptions being received. At last evening's meeting of the club Chairman Campbell, of the Convention hall committee, sat for a few moments on a sofa with Robert Gilliam. and at the close of the meeting it was an-nounced that Mr. Gillham had contributed nounced that Mr. Gillham had contributed another $100 to the building fund. Secretary Clendening shook hands with Dr. C. B. It will do business with but one now until Hewitt and when he withdrew his mand he found the doctor had left therem a $5 bin for the same purpose. Other cash subscriptions were also abnounced as follows: F. A. for the same purpose. Other cash subscrip-tions were also almounced as follows: F. A. Leland, $5; Marguerite Williams, $1, Ma-

The main feature of the evening's meet-ing was the paper by W. C. Scarritt apon the "Separation of Kansas City From Jackthe Separation of Kansas City From Jackson County.

Mr. Scarritt argued that the duplication of officials would be obviated and the expenses to the taxpayers correspondingly reduced, by separation of city and county. He reviewed the duties of the county officials and argued that they could be performed as well by city officials with corresponding duties. All the taxes collectible within the limits of Kansas City for the state, county and city would be payable in one place. A more satisfactory method of assessing real estate in the city would be secured. The police department could be better adjusted to the municipal machinery and Kansas City could build thoroughfares through City county. Mo., or Wyandotte county, Kas.

Mr. Scarritt argued that while the contemplated change would have the effect to applying revenue raised in Kansas City to yoice in the management of their own affairs.

Mr. Scarritt argued that while the con-templated change would have the effect to applying revenue raised in Kansas City to the use of the people within its limits. It does not follow that it would work to the disadvantage of the county outside of the city limits. The wants and needs of the people of the outlying territory are es-sentially different from those of the city. Those people, like the people of all intelli-gent communities, demand the controlling voice in the management of their own af-fairs.

Such a change needs to be authorized by an amendment to the constitution of the state. To amend this instrument it is required that the general assembly approve the proposed amendment by a majority vote of the members elected to each house. The amendment is then to be submitted to a vote of the people of the state at the next general election thereafter in such manner as the general assembly may provide. A majority of the voters of the state voting for or against an amendment is required to ratify the same and make it a valid and binding law.

The movement cannot succeed if it is taken up as a political measure. Either of the two leading parties is strong enough to subvert any such proceeding enterprised by the other for political advantage. It must succeed, if at all, by being founded in justice and equity to the two districts concerned, and prove its purpose to be the simpler and better government, and the higher and more intelligent development of the great mass of people now being congregated in and about a great and growing city.

"Political parties." concluded Mr. Scar-

"Political parties," concluded Mr. Scatritt, "are averse to surrendering any apparent advantage to the opponent, but it is the truest polities and highest citizenship after having determined what is the greatest good for the greater number to rise above consideration of immediate personal or party advantage, and take a proad and distant view to the lasting good of the party and the people whom the party presume to represent. The philosophy of politics is not meterially different from that of morals, and that party will be crowned with the most lasting laurels whose influence and labors have been of uplifting service to the whole people." "are averse to surrendering any ap-

Telephone Entertainment.

At the close of Mr. Scarritt's address the entertainment committee, through its chairman, Gardiner Lathrop, reported that a long distance telephone effectainment would be given on November 15 through the courtesty of the Missouri and Kansas Telephone Company in the rooms of the Commercial Club. As the room is limited only members of the club and their families can be present. Messages from some of the distinguished men of the nation are expected and arrangements will be made for members to converse with friends in distant cities. The entertainment promises to be very unique and novel.

C. E. Finney introduced a resolution urging upon commercial bodies throughout the country to bring influences to bear upon senators and representatives to the end that quick action should be taken by congress in acquiring the Nicaraguan canal rights of the Maritime company, headed by Hon. Warner Miller, of New York.

At the suggestion of Captain J. H. Walte the resolutions were so amended before passage as to leave out all reference to the Maritime company and its franchises and simply urged the immediate and expeditious action of congress in acquiring and building this canal, not committing the club to a position favoring the purchase of any interrest, but only that the canal should be built and controlled by the United States and built speedity.

Young Scroggins expects to be granted a furlough in time to reach home for his Christmas dinner.

Phil Scroggins is lieutenant of Company H. Twenty-third Kansas volunteers. He is now in Santiago and he writes to his mother from there that the people are agreeable and sociable and rapidly assimilating American customs and manners. There, too, Old Glory floats proudly from scores of flagstaffs. The health of the troops, he says, is excellent. Typhold fever has almost disappeared, under the improved sanitary regulations, and the majority of the men now in the hospitals are suffering from a mild form of typhold malaria.

Lieutenant Scroggins also expects to eat his Christmas dinner at his mother's table.

LIEUT. HOCKER WAS FIRST. Kansas City Boy Marched Into San

In a letter dated San Juan, October 20, Lieutenant Woodson Hocker, of this city, writes to his brother, E. Burton Hocker, some interesting details of the entrance of the American forces into San Juan. Lieutenant Hocker is with Battery G, Fifth artillery, He writes:

"We left Mayaguez Sunday afternoon, October 16, and when we got in sight of San Juan we had to lie outside the harbor until 12 o'clock, as that was the time set for our entrance to the city. We had three ships, the Stillwater leading, and after her the Rita, a boat which was captured from the Spaniards at the beginning of the war; after her came the Gypsum King, which is the most powerful, as well as the fastest, ocean going tug in the world. At exactly 12 o'clock we steamed into the mouth of the harbor past Morro castle. It was a sight to be remembered. San Juan is a picture-sque and old looking place. The harbor is beautiful and the people, mostly Spaniards, treated us nicely. We stayed on board until Tuesday morning, when our battery marched to San Cristobal and took possession and the Spanish soldiers marched out. I was at the head of the battery and I am glad to be the first American soldier to march into this immensely old and strong fort at the head of troops. "At 12 o'clock a gun was fired from Morro and we then fired twenty-one shots from the large guns of San Cristobal and ran up the stars and stripes. "I have rooms just outside the fort in one of the buildings set apart for the Spanish officers. We have a yard with banana trees in bearing." ships, the Stillwater leading, and after her the Rita, a boat which was captured from

Line in Cuba. Mr. Ralph D. Brooks, of this city, a member of the United States signal corps, Com-

Santiago de Cuba, says: "We are building a telegraph line from Santiago to San Luis, a distance of about Santiago to San Luis, a distance of about twenty miles. Four of us have charge of the work, with a gang of Jamaica negroes to do the heavy business. We are now camped at Boneoto, about ten miles out from the city. We are following the railroad, which runs along the base of a high range of mountains. The mountain sides are covered with coconnut trees and other tropical vegetation and the country is indeed beautiful. We have a pack train of eleven mules and five packers with us to carry provisions and material.

"The sun is pretty hot, but as we lay off from 10 to 2:20 we escape the worst of it. My health is excellent and I have not had a sick day."

Captain Miller Has Recovered.

Captain John W. Miller, Company E, Third regiment, who has been fill at a hospital in Washington for three months, reported for duty at Camp Compton yesterday morning. Colonel Gross and other officers of the regiment met him at the depot. Captain Miller was stricken with typhoid fever August 3, at Camp Alget. When a rifle range was being constructed he stood in water up to his waist, and this, with the terrible heat which followed when the company was on the march a few days later, caused his filness. He had a hard fight against death at the hospital in Washington.

Elmer L. Gillespie, who assaulted and seriously injured last week Easton Taylor, a comrade in Company C, of the Third regiment, was arraigned yesterday before Justice Spitz. Gillespie pleaded not gliuty and was sent to jail without bail to await the result of Taylor's Injuries. Captain Charles T. Schwegler, of Gillespie's company, swore to the complaint on which he was arraigned. Taylor is in the city hospital.
